Please join us as ODOT Historian Chris Bell and ODOT Archaeologist Kurt Roedel, present "Raiders of the Lost Art: Bringing Oregon's Heritage to Light." Kurt and Chris will introduce Oregon's hidden historical gems through stories of the work they do in balancing Oregon's transportation projects while protecting our heritage.

Kurt Roedel has been an Archaeologist with ODOT since 2005. He received his BA in Anthropology from Boise State University and his Master of Arts in Anthropology from Colorado State University. Mr. Roedel has practiced archaeology in Idaho, Washington, and Oregon. He enjoys sharing his enthusiasm for his profession by developing outreach projects for the public.

Chris Bell received his BA in Architectural Studies at Williams College and his Master of Science in Historic Preservation at the University of Oregon. Chris works for ODOT as the Cultural Resource Program Coordinator where he oversees statewide policies and programs for cultural resource identification and evaluation. His research interests are in understanding and documenting the cultural markers of early immigrant communities in Oregon.
